Zurich & Elsewhere

12 interviews, 3 curators,
13 artists, 2 designers, 19 artworks,
1 photographer

Expanding on his recently unpublished archive conversation between Hans Ulrich Obrist and the writer Paul Feyerabend, Adriano Panzer takes a look at the way in which Switzerland has redefined the global world of contemporary culture: from Lausanne, St. Gallen, Basel and Lucern, to London, Los Angeles, New York, and Berlin, art's Swiss influence is expanding a long way beyond Zurich. Featuring a carefully curated group of artists, writers and curators, Zurich & Elsewhere will be published as Adriano Panzer's first London gallery show in early 2015.

The Zurich & Elsewhere project began as a feature in the seventh edition of Modern Matter magazine as part of a dialogue about the changing nature of art in Switzerland – and the changing nature of locality – before its current iteration as a group show.

Modern Matter is an independent culture and contemporary arts publication, released biannually and edited and curated by Olu Odukoya; his studio, OMO Creates, also publishes the large-format art magazine Kilimanjaro.
